But, they are certainly fascinating enough to make you want to follow the heroine on her daily pursuit of crime solving adventures. Margaret Grace's days are much like our days--filled with love of grandchildren, pursuing a hobby, having good friends, and cooking meals or treats. The only thing different is the way she inadvertently runs into crime adventures. But, they are the kind where you could picture yourself in her place. Not sure I'd be as clever at solving the mysteries, or that I would put myself in danger to the depth that she does, but that's why we read! I love this whole set of books. AI also love the Elements books and the new Ada Madison books. Everything Minichino writes is A-1!!!! A pleasure to read.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. greatBy mystifiedMasterful.....and here are my additional nineteen words an attempt to reach my required quota. You see I needed more.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Miniature mysteriesBy B. BuellI am reading the entire series because I met the author at a miniature show. They are technically well done, but I find them rather slow reading.

Gerrys crafts are small-scale, but her to-do list is anything but. Add murder to thatwith one of her students as a suspectand you have one hectic holiday. Time to shrink this mystery down to size.
